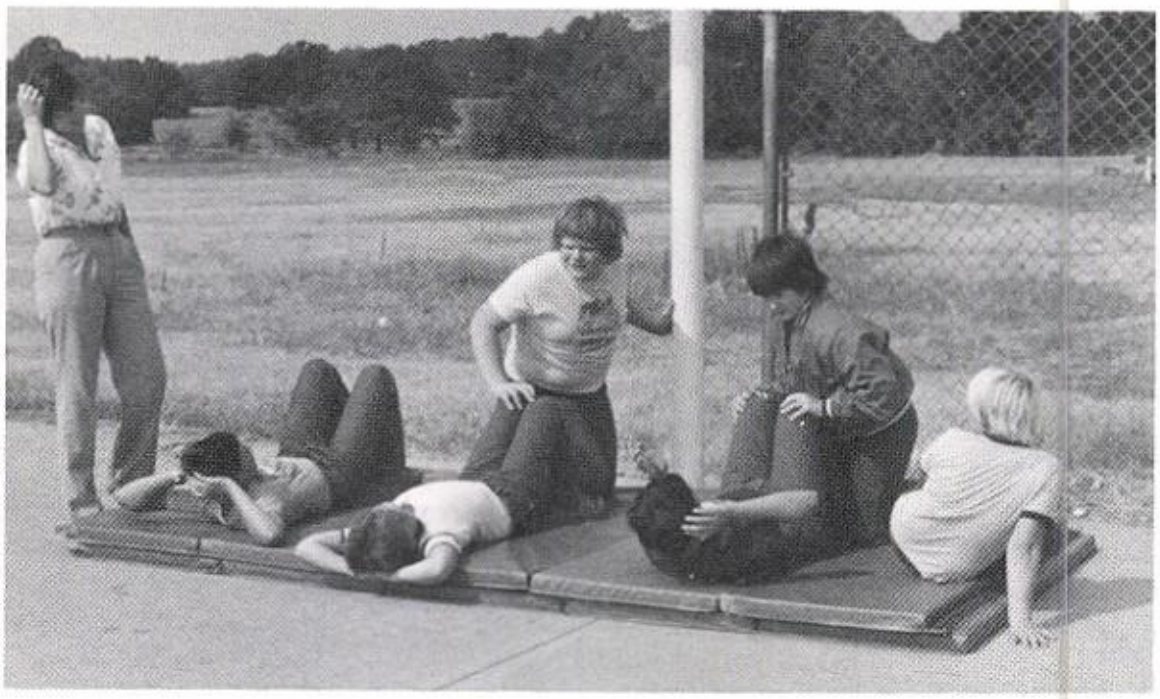
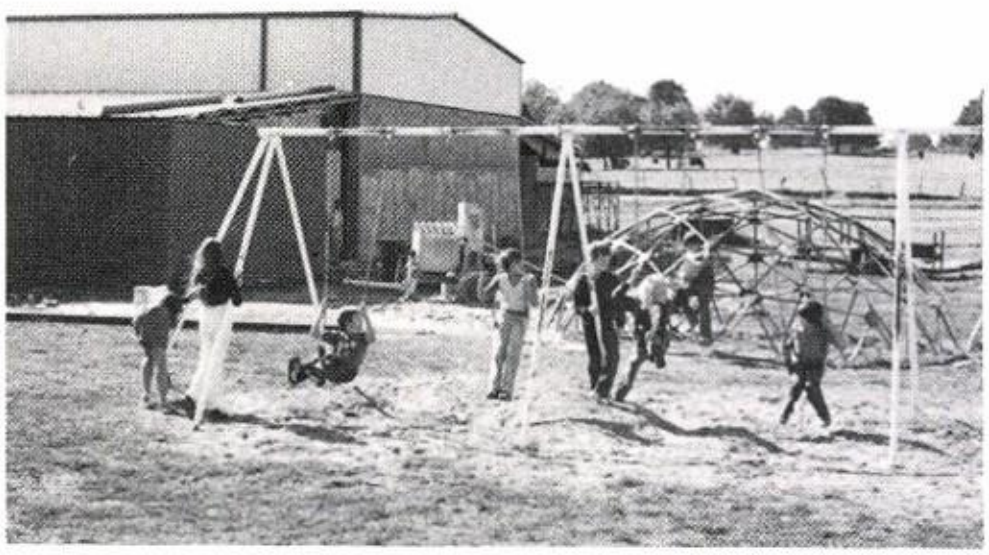
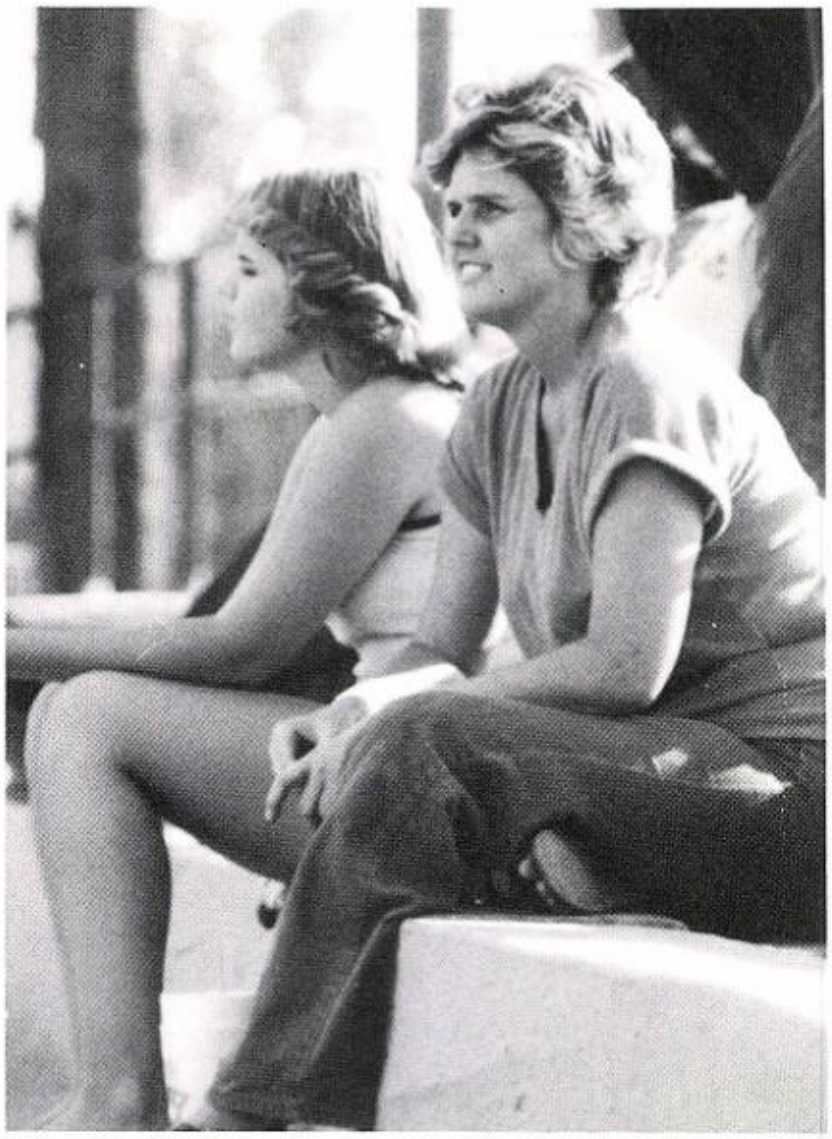
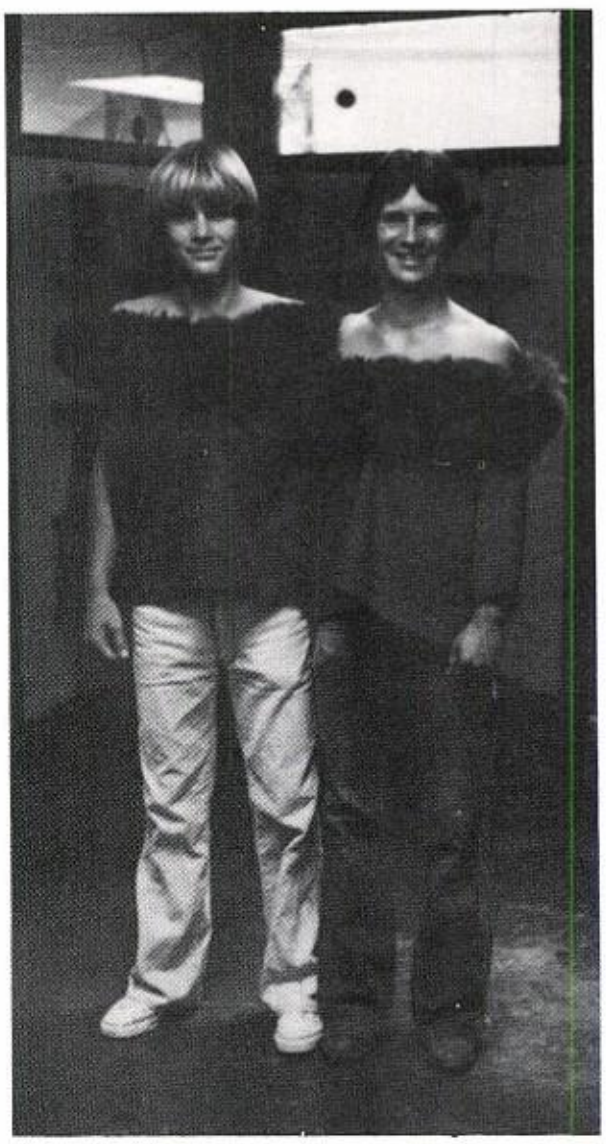
PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE



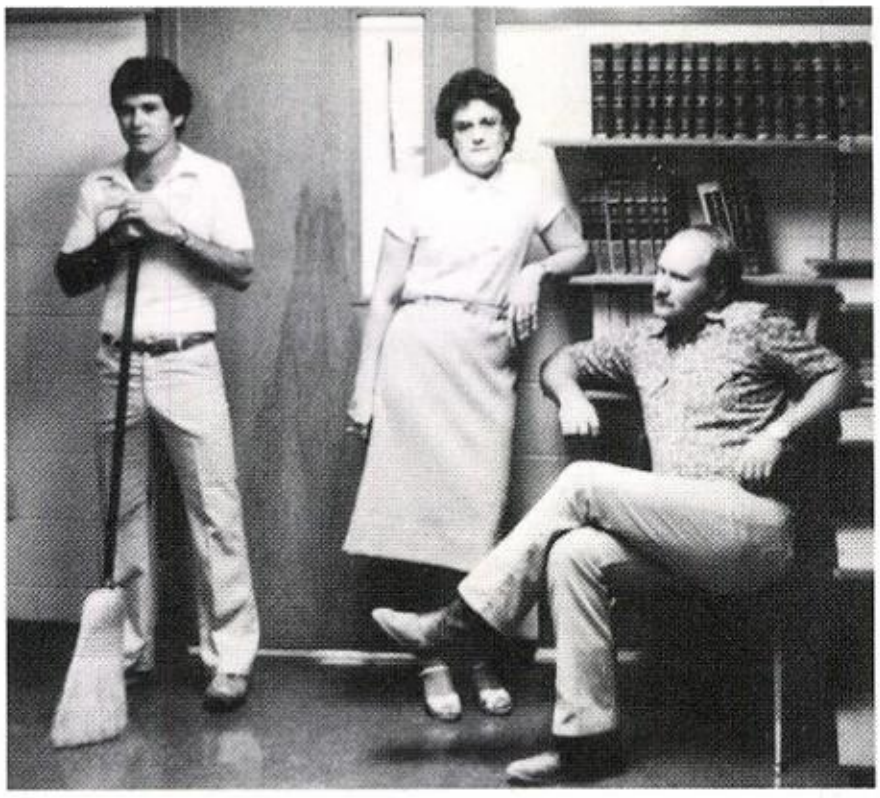


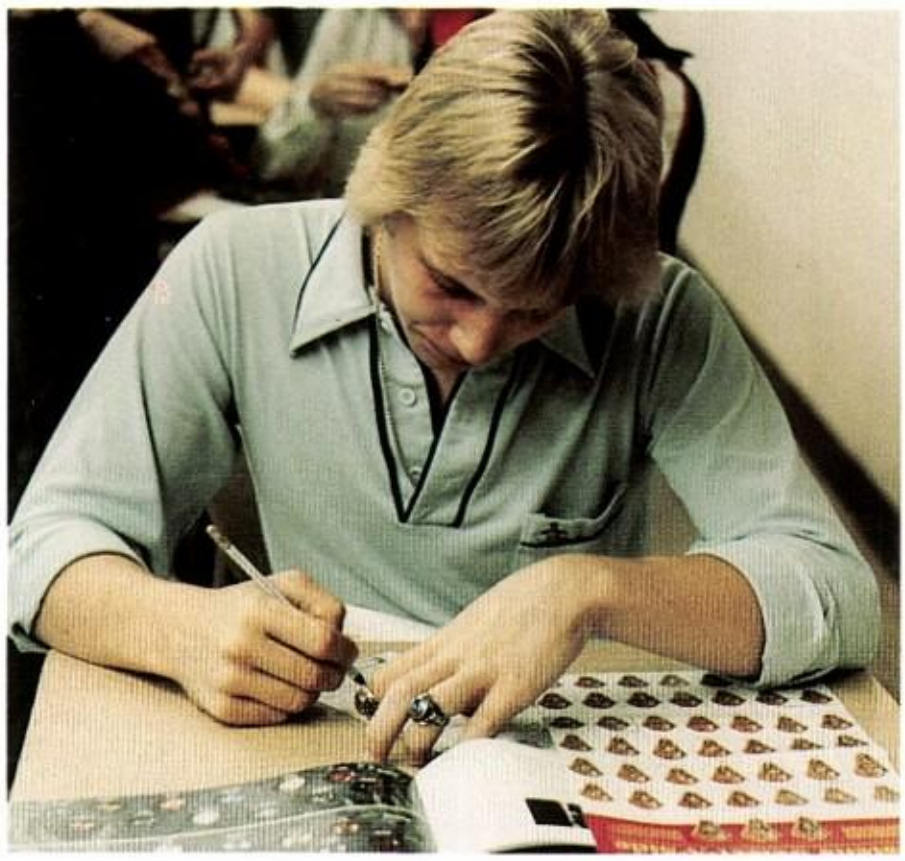
The times of your life are happening right now, wherever you are, whoever you're with, whatever you're thinking or doing. These times make up the present, the "in-between" state of here-and-now that is anticipated before and remembered long after. But what are YOU made of? The answer lies in the past and the future, as well as in the present.





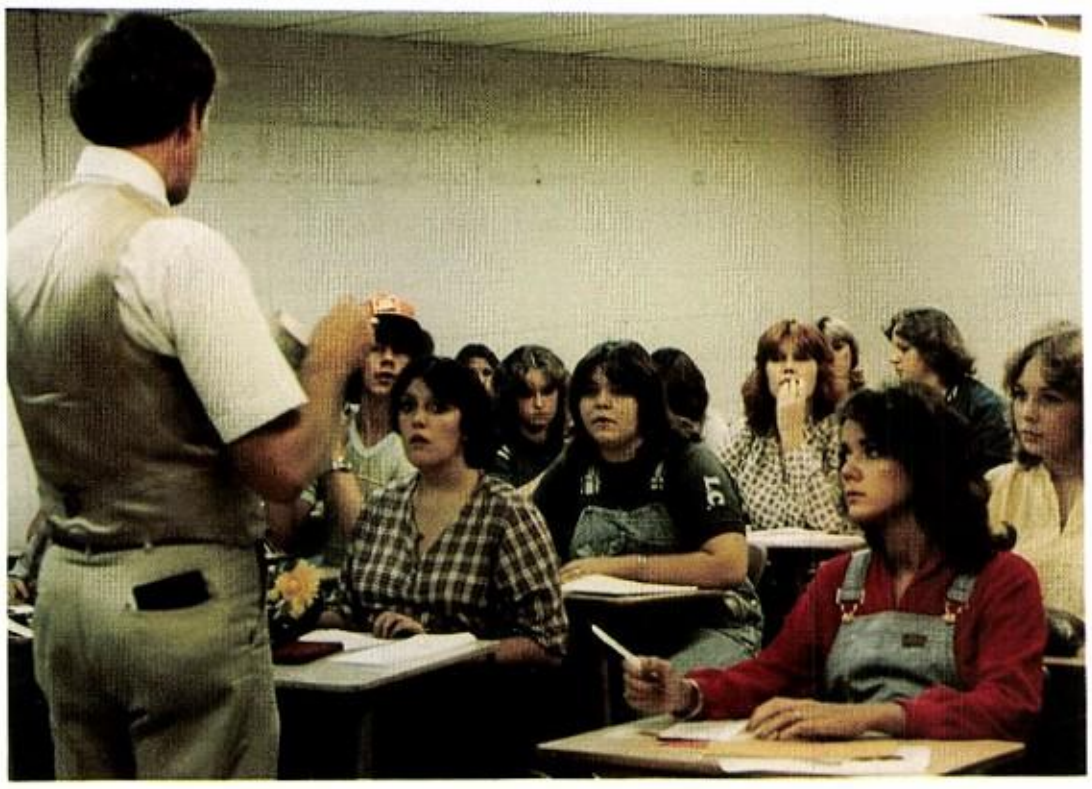
Shaped by your own personal history, beckoned by the questions of future days, you exist in the everyday world of the present. Your comings and goings are broader and wider than place to place — because along the way, you're learning and unlearning, giving and taking, meeting and departing. You are the before, the after and the in-between.

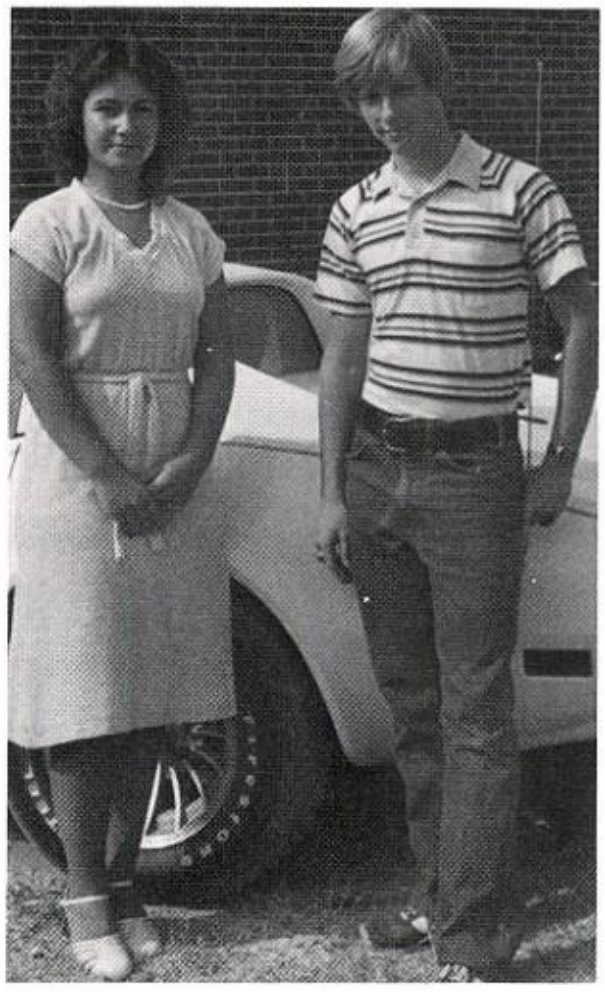


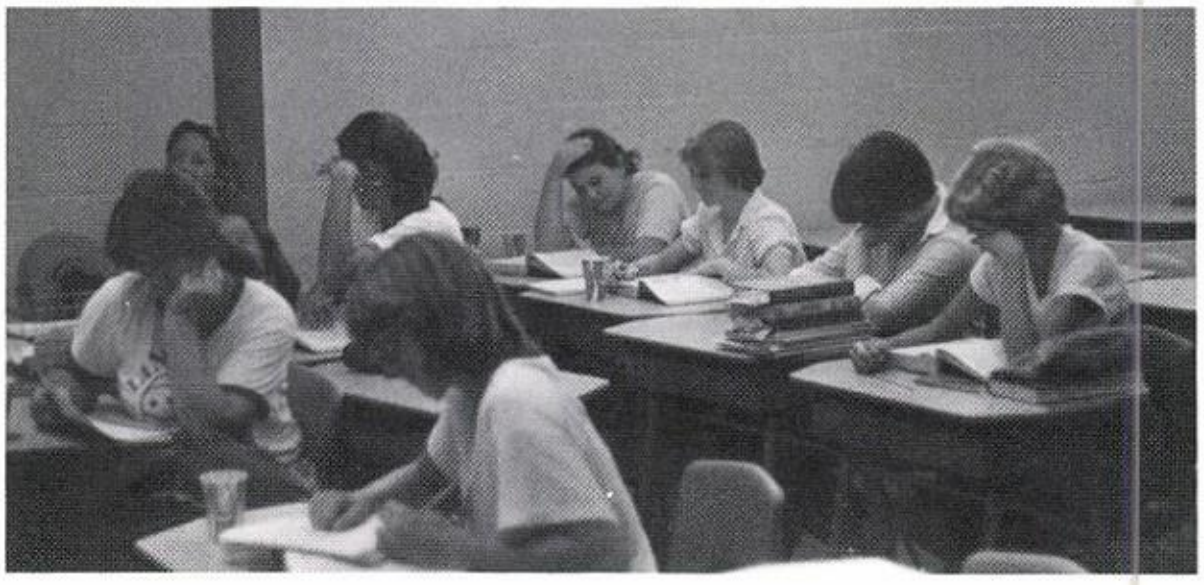


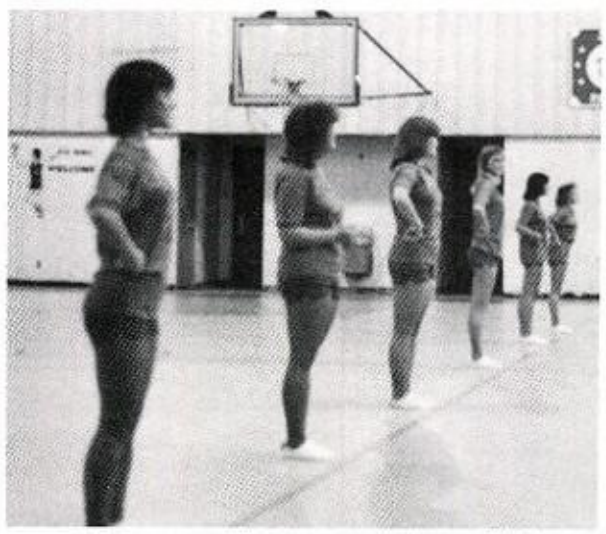
We measure the passing of time in terms of what time brings to us. And so, even the seemingly unimportant events in our lives are never really forgotten — we use them as reference points and stopping places. Happenings are grouped into time frames such as "just before the ballgame," or "a few days before my birthday" or "about the same time I met you." Thoughts and memories revolve around the old and the new. The familiar and the unfamiliar. What we've done and what we've yet to do.

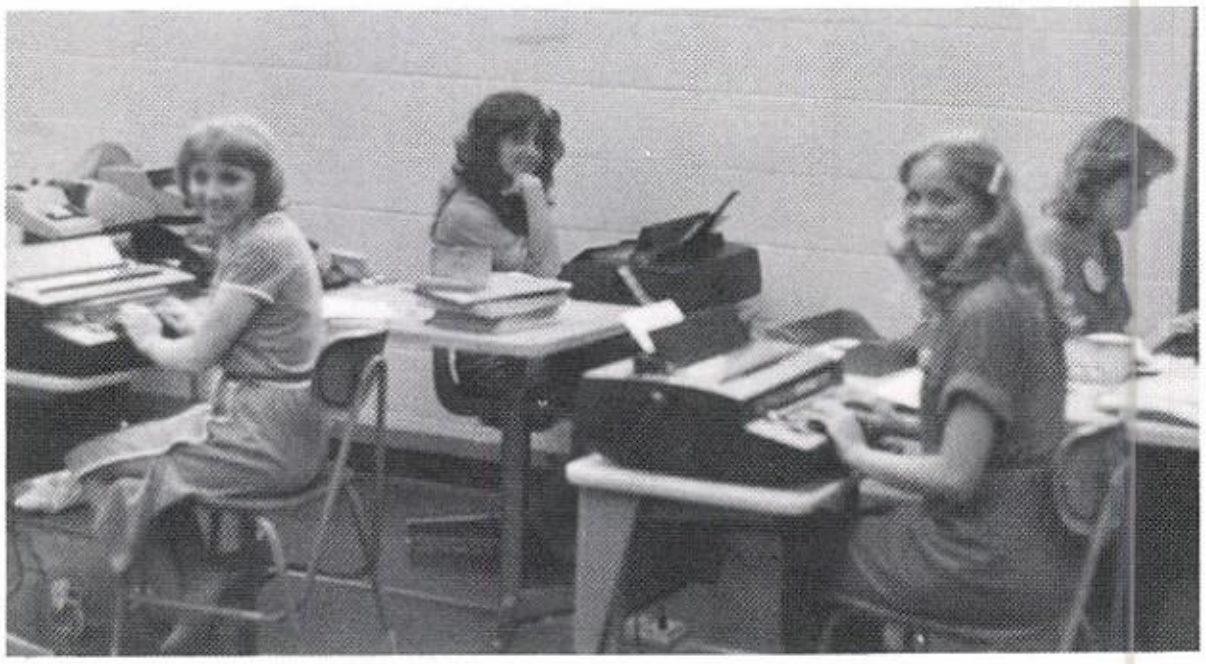
But being in-between is what the times of our lives are all about. We are presented with problems. We enter the in-between state of figuring out the solutions, of trial and error, of re-evaluating and revamping. Then, the answers come and the cycle of before, in-between and after is complete.





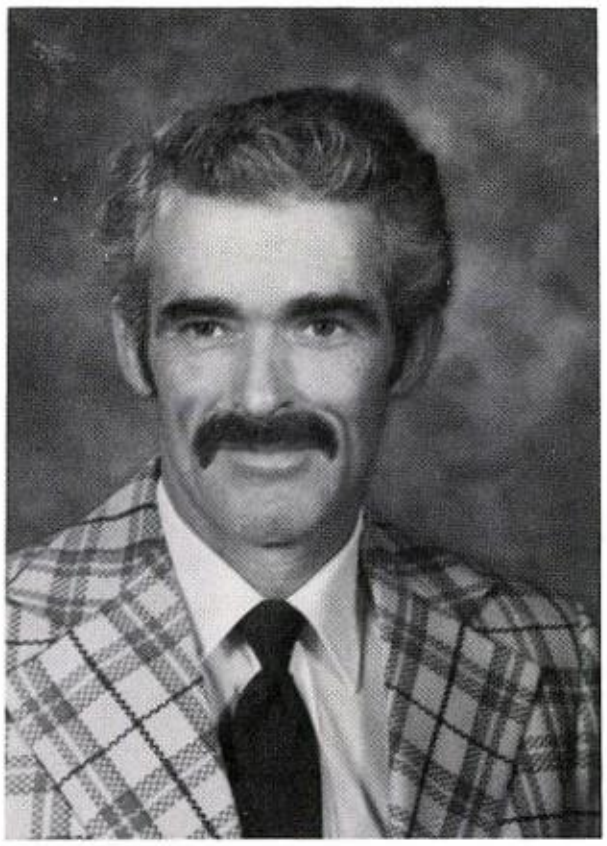


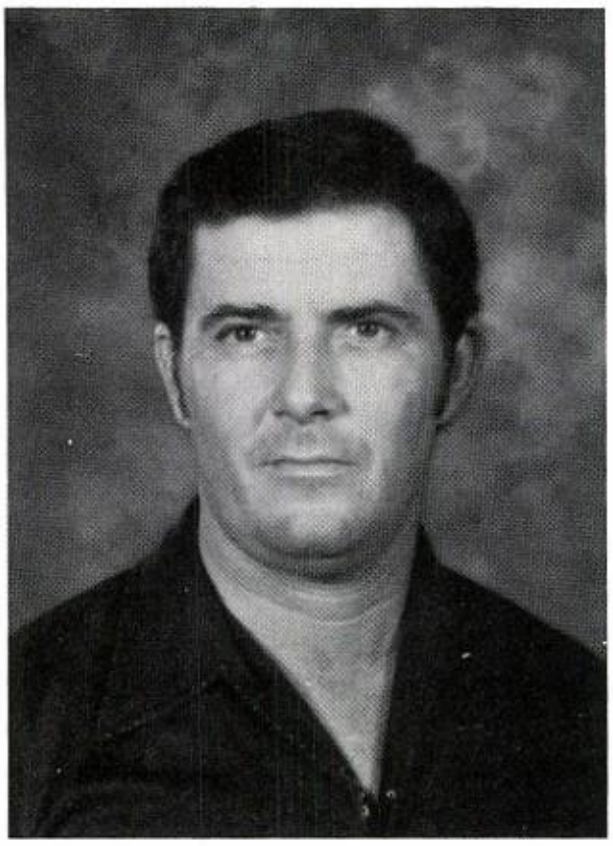


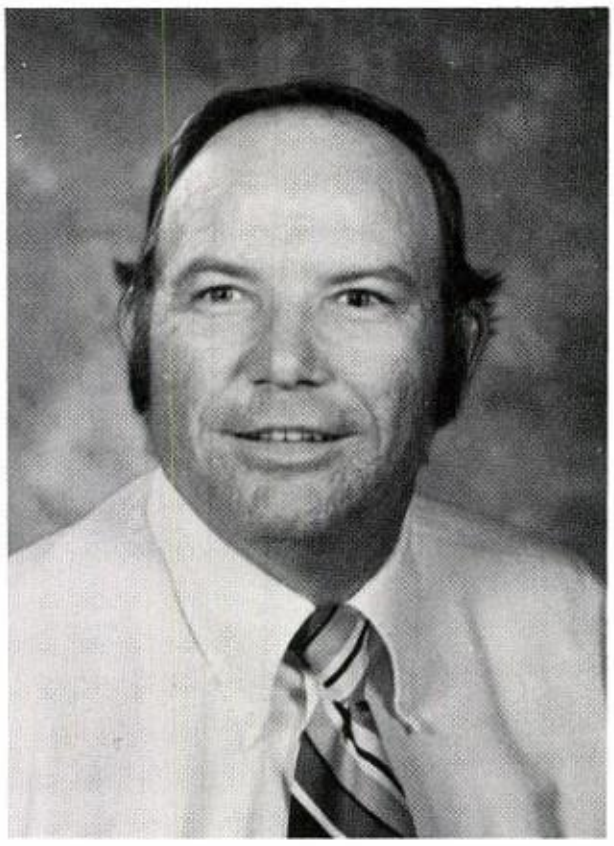


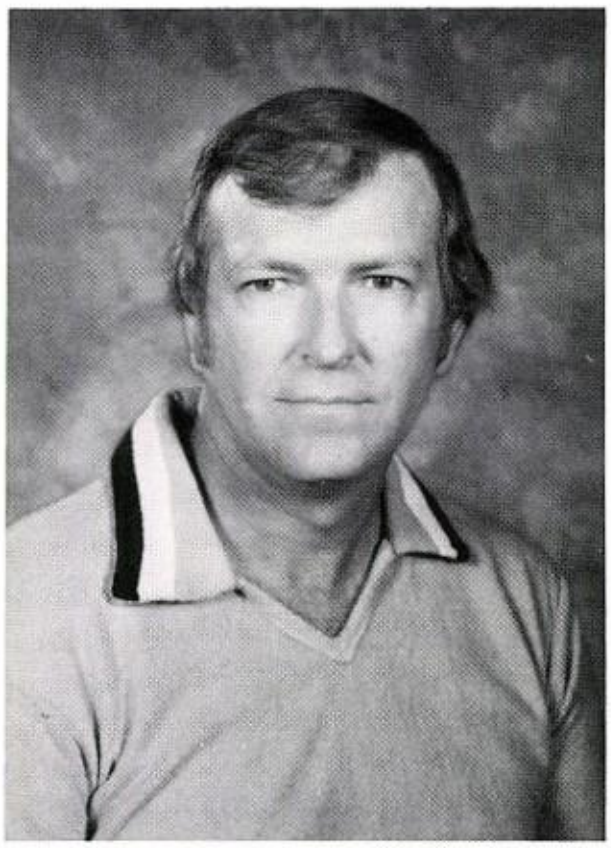
We meet others. We exchange ideas and share backgrounds and joy and pain. We become friends and the cycle moves on to include other faces and names that will become a part of the times of our lives. We take in new knowledge. We master new skills. And this continual branching out fits neatly into the cycle that makes everyone a part of the past, the present, and the future.

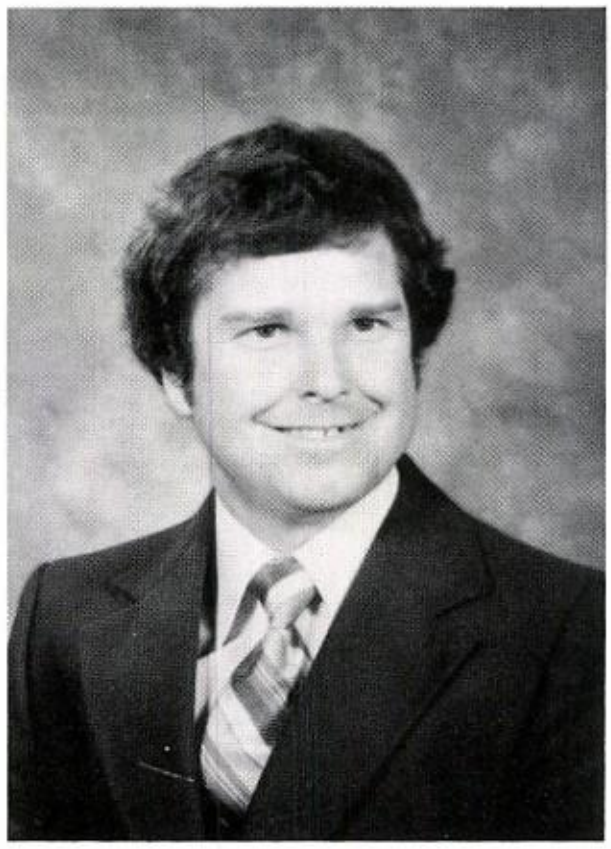
DEDICATION











Present School Board Members: Benny Holt, President; Louie Allen, Vice President; Ken Masters, Clerk; Jimmy Walker, Member; and William Bryan, Member.

Those past members of the new Silo School District not pictured above are Elmer Nelson, Alton Talley, John Northcutt, Homer Eslick, Doyle Allen, Bob Norman, Jimmy Green, and Robert Johns.

Among the populus of this community are those who have given their undivided attention, talent, extreme loyalty, and devotion to the upgrading of their public school system as they have served on the Cobb-Mead and later Silo Board of Education. It is by their untiring efforts that Silo School has come into its present existence. Those men from Cobb: Homer Eslick, Huell Duncan, Harold Lowe, Doyle Allen and Harold McDonald, and from Mead: James Spears, A. J. Parker, Elmer Nelson, Alton Talley and John Northcutt looked beyond the horizon and foresaw the task which lay ahead in order to keep their local community school. They met that challenge head-on with a spirit of hope and unity. At that time in 1968 there were only 3 school busses operating within both respective districts — presently there are 12 in operation within the Silo School District bounds. There was not a single school building located on the 34¾ acre site of the present modern plant's location. In fact, this tract of land was not even owned by the District at that time. It is to these members, past and present, of the Silo Board of Education that we the student body and faculty of the Silo School most humbly and gratefully dedicate our 1980-81 Silo School Annual.

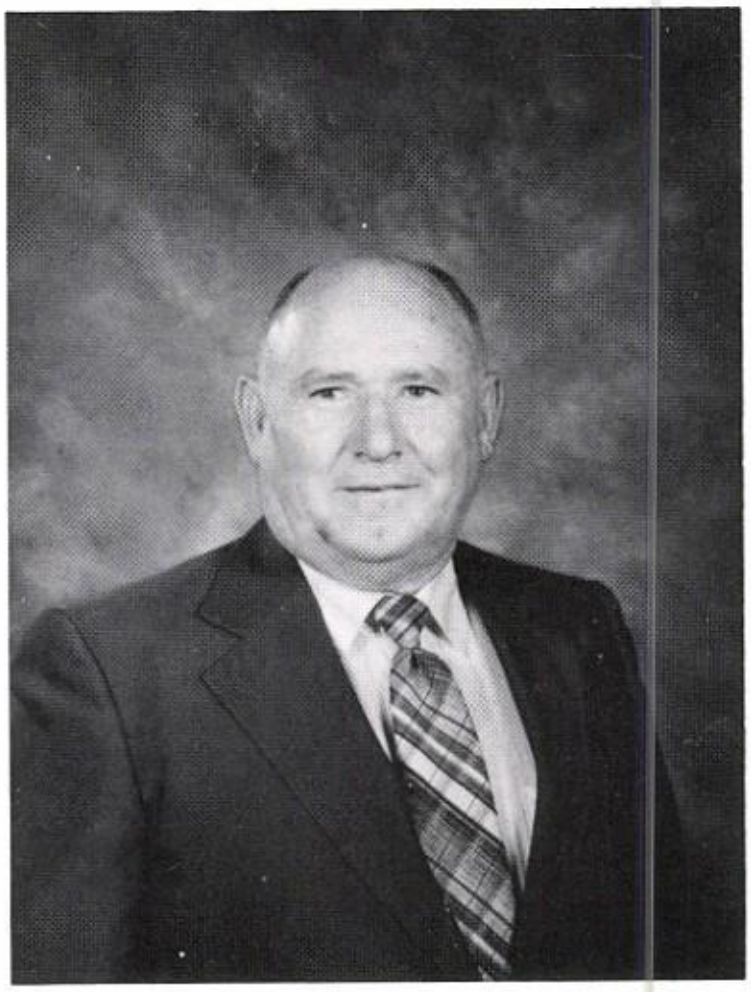
SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE



All worthwhile things had small beginnings, whether it be in the realm of natural life, cultural events or material structures. 1980 marks the turn of a new decade. It is a special time to look back over the past years and take a check of the balance scale. In doing this I envision Silo as it was on that first day we looked at it as a prospective location for this school — a weatherbeaten frame home with pear trees and yellow jonquils blooming in the yard. The first official School Board of the newly consolidated Silo School District was searching for a building site. They had a dream and most of them have lived to see that dream become a reality. The School Board and Community have overcome many barriers through unity and determination and you are commended for a job well done. I feel indeed grateful in having the opportunity to have shared in this task of planning and organizing with such dedicated people as those residing in this District, especially those serving on the Silo Board of Education both now and in the past life of the Silo School District's twelve years of existence.

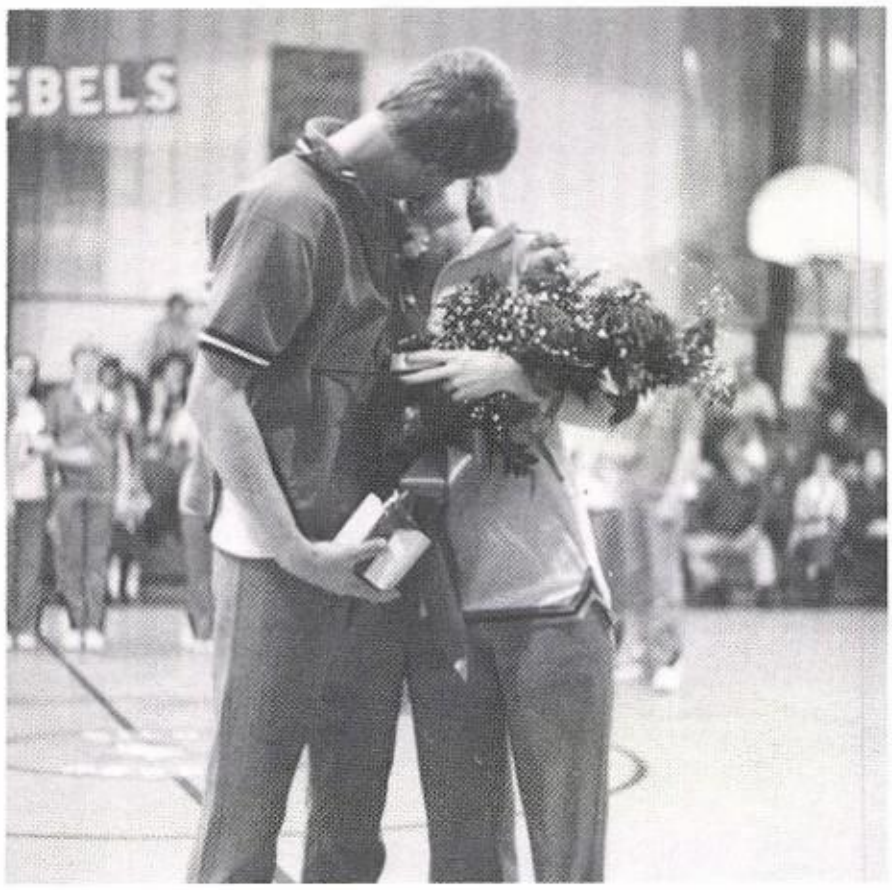
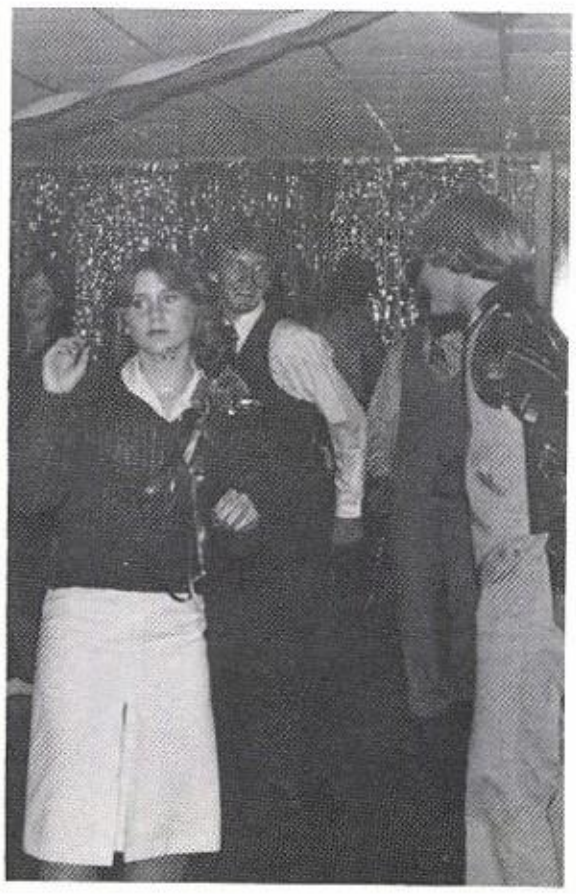
HOMECOMING

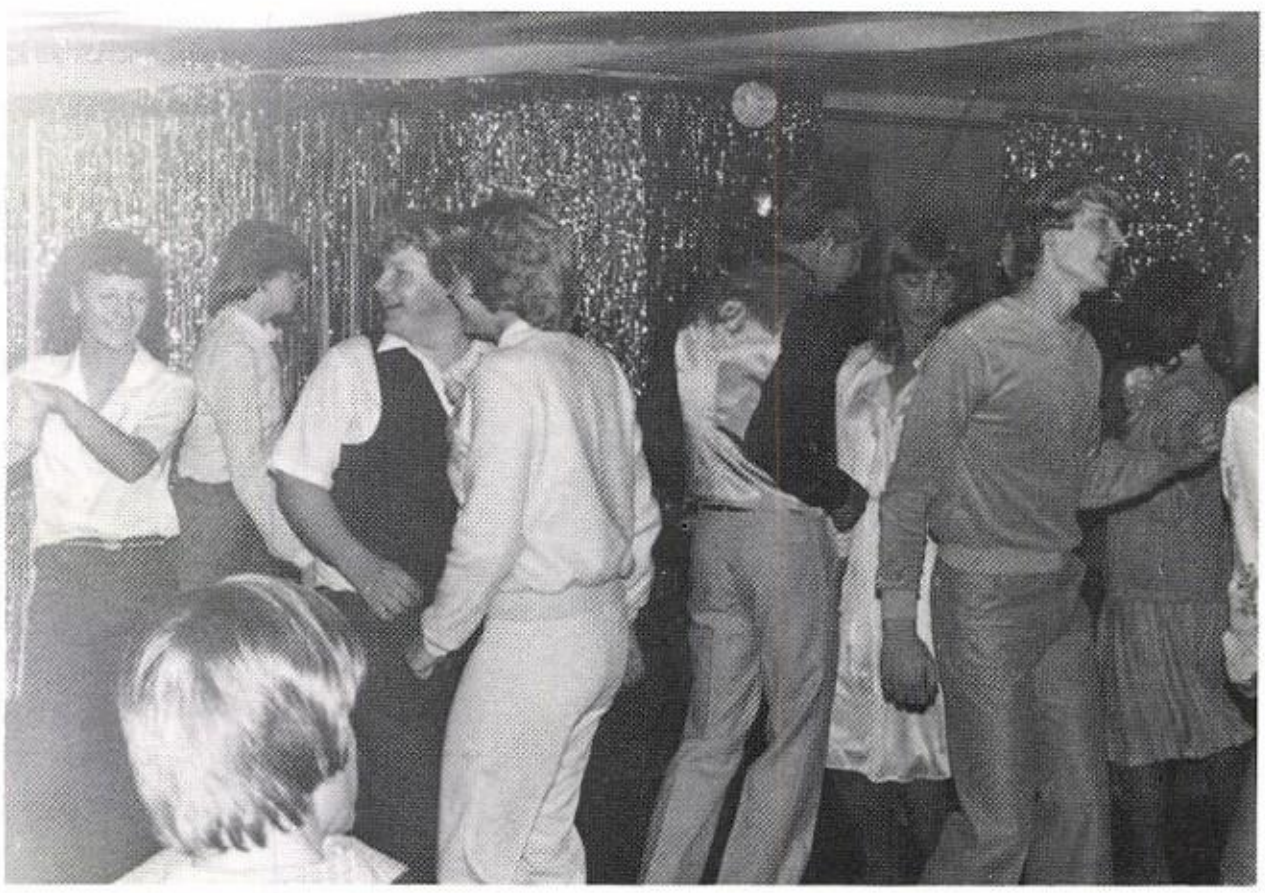
Friday, January 9th, was a busy day for the Juniors. Everyone was busy decorating for Homecoming. They also sponsored the Alumni reception, which was given before the ballgame in the CVET Home-Ec room. The coronation of the Homecoming King and Queen was performed between the boys' and girls' games. The King and Queen were Edmond Putman and Carla Trotter. Jodi Kenney, Randy Bowen, Rhonda Bennett, and Scott Pratt were the Homecoming candidates. After the games, the Juniors sponsored a Homecoming dance which was very successful.



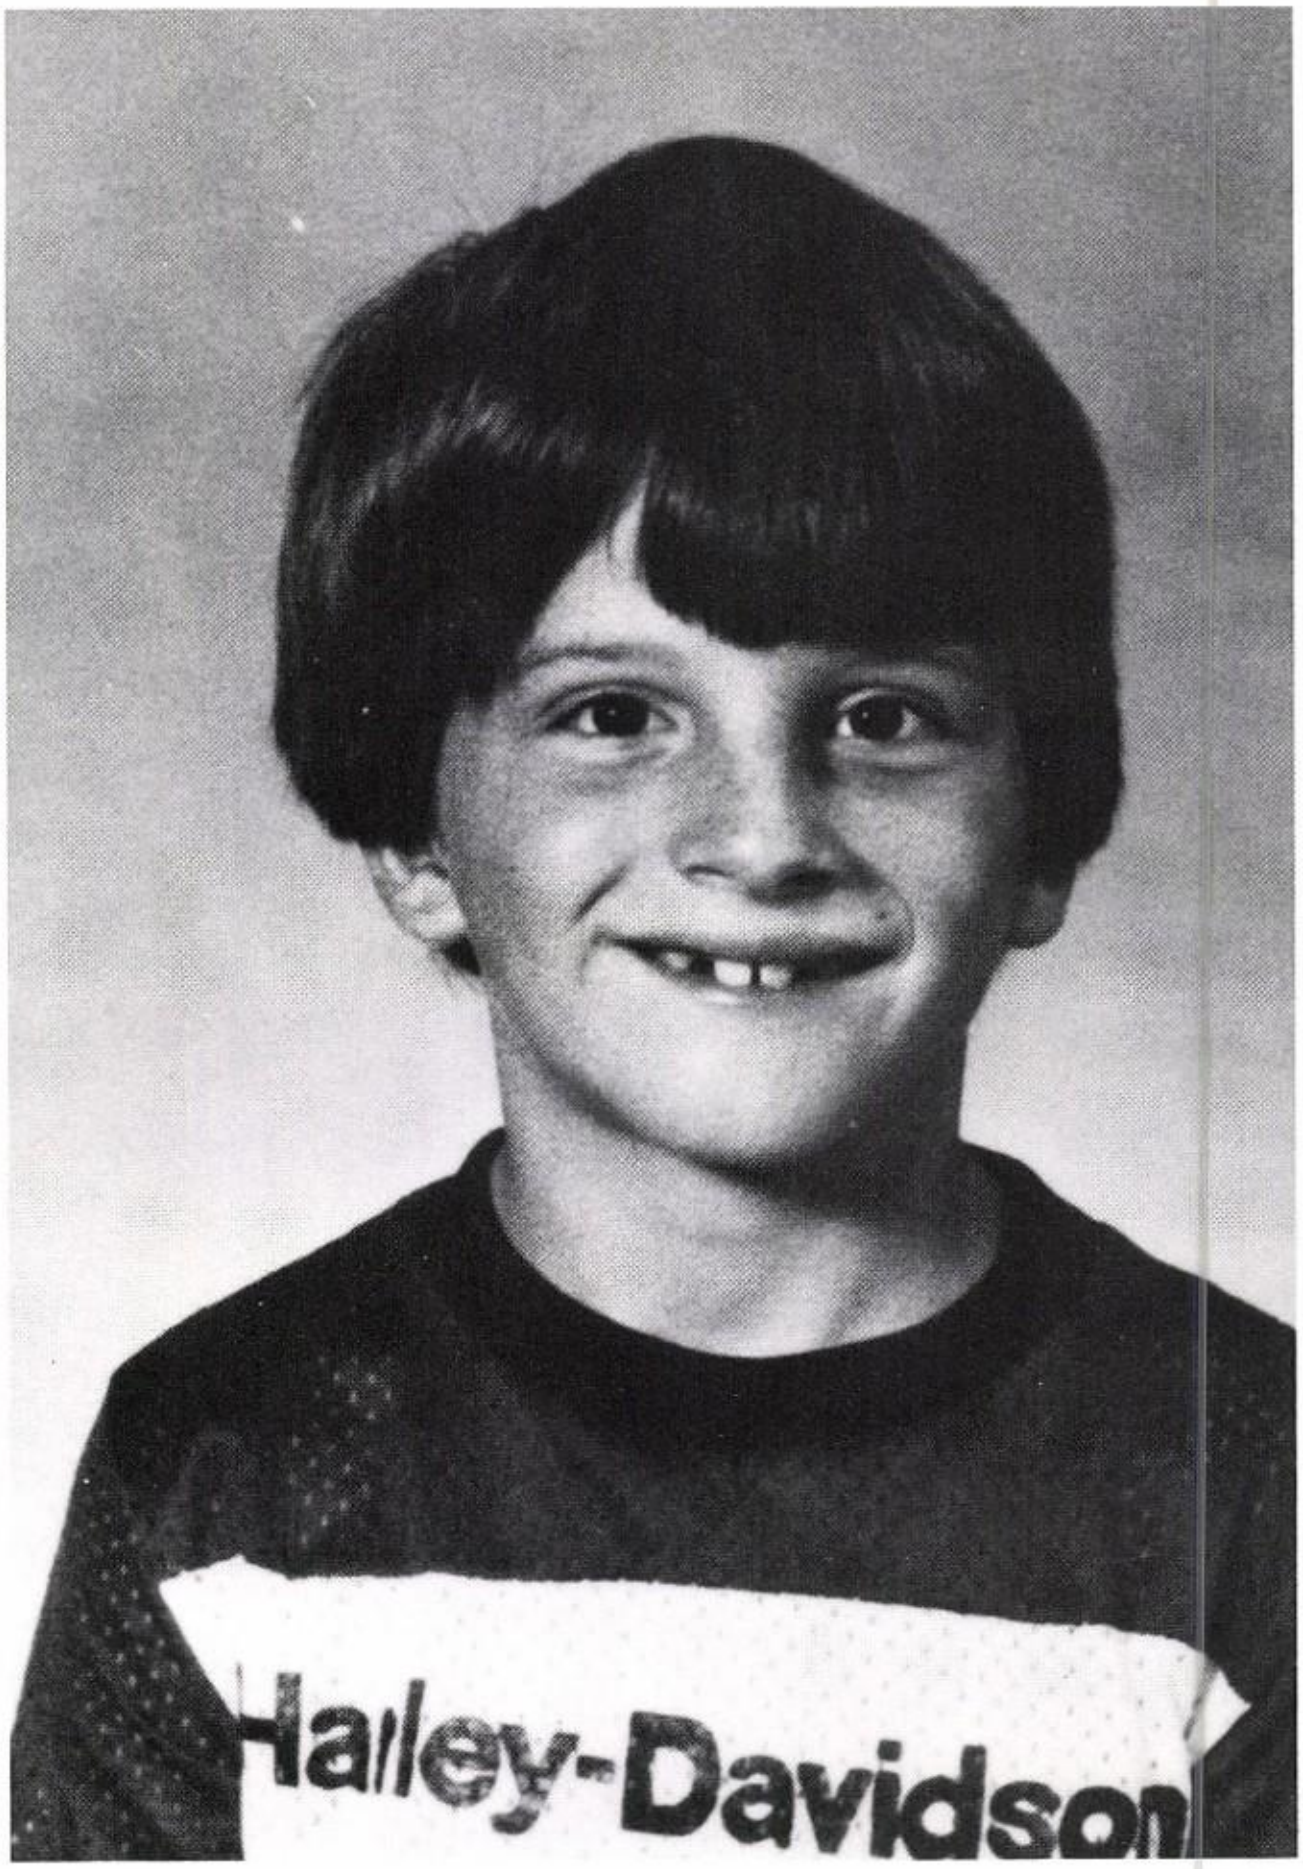
EBELS

REBELS





IN MEMORY OF CHAD FRANKLIN



Where have you gone to little Chad
Why did you go away
We miss your big brown eyes 'round here
And your smile you shared each day.

We wish that you'd come back to us
But understand you've gone
To a much, much better place
Than we have ever known.

We've saved your place at lunchtime
And all the playground games
And look at all the picture cars
That are still signed by your name.

We know you're very happy
As you sit on Jesus' knee
For now you're painting pictures
For Heaven's angels to see.

Please don't forget us Precious One
And save us all a seat
When we shall gather one by one
And once again we'll meet.

By Sue Hopkins
